

ADVANCE YOUR LEGAL EXPERTISE

The legal profession is growing both broader and deeper in this era of internationalization, increasing specialization, and interdisciplinary and multi-jurisdictional practice. Investing in a concentrated program of post-JD study can be more valuable now than ever before.

Whether you are a recent law school graduate seeking an edge in a challenging job market, or an experienced practitioner looking to consolidate your expertise at the cutting edge of legislative, regulatory and policy developments in your field, you should consider earning a graduate law degree at Golden Gate University. An advanced degree is not just a means to an end; it can equip you to succeed and prepare you to continue learning throughout your professional life.

Our Master of Laws (LLM) Program in Taxation, considered one of the best in the nation, recently celebrated its 30th anniversary. We also offer LLM degrees in Environmental Law, Intellectual Property Law, International Legal Studies, and US Legal Studies, and a Doctor of Juridical Science (SJD) degree in International Legal Studies. Graduate students can pursue individually customized study plans by taking advantage of our many flexible options, including subject area concentrations within the LLM in US Legal Studies Program. We also offer non-degree certificate programs in a variety of subject areas, including Estate Planning.

At Golden Gate University School of Law, you will find a wide selection of courses, a stimulating intellectual environment, and a diverse and vibrant community including students from across the United States and from more than 60 other countries. You will also find quality student support, including generous financial assistance and a highly trained career services staff. We are particularly proud of a faculty known for excellent classroom teaching, for producing both practical and academic research, and for a wide range of practice and consulting experience. Our institutional and individual networks of relationships cover much of the globe.

Founded in 1901, we are located in the heart of downtown San Francisco. We remain fully committed to our traditions of access, diversity, innovation, and opportunity.
